GRAHAM ORDERS ALL DOGS TIED TO END RABIES

40-Day Quarantine Put in Effect By Official After Confab With Kerns

POLICE GIVEN POWER

Canines on Leash Must Be Muzzled, Mayor Says in His Proclamation

Circleville's quarantine on dogs to prevent the spread of rabies will become effective Friday under a proclamation issued Thursday by Mayor W. J. Graham.

All dogs must be penned, tied or muzzled for forty days. Dogs on leash must be muzzled.

Under the city ordinance the police department is granted authority to destroy dogs running at large during the quarantine period.

Mayor Graham issued the order at the request of Dr. V. D. Kerns, county health officer. Four cases of rabies have been reported in the county. Stray dogs are blamed for the disease. A 30-day quarantine was placed on the county recently.

The proclamation follows:

"I, William J. Graham, as Mayor of the City of Circleville, Ohio, under and by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by Section 78 of the Codified Ordinances of said City, having been informed by the Office of the County Health Department of Pickaway County that there is danger from hydrophobia in said city, do make, publish and declare the following proclamation:

"All persons owning, keeping or harboring dogs within the corporate limits of the City of Circleville, Ohio shall confine such dogs by good and sufficient means, or securely muzzle them for a term of not less than forty days to commence within two days from the date of this proclamation.

"Witness my hand at Circleville, Ohio, this 10th day of June, 1936."

INJECTION GIVEN DOG WARDEN AS RESULT OF BITE

Harry Riffe, Rt. 1, county dog warden, is taking the Pasteur treatment for rabies as the result of being bitten by a dog Tuesday evening.

Riffe said the head of the animal was sent to Columbus and a negative report was received Wednesday. Later he received word from the state department to take the treatment as a precaution. He was bitten on the left hand while taking the dog from the trailer.

The dog, a German shepherd, was obtained at the home of Floyd Cooper, tenant on the Thomas farm in Wayne-twp.

Riffe is being treated by Dr. E. L. Montgomery. Fourteen injections are given in the treatment.

PRESIDENT ASKS BANKS TO ASSIST EX-SERVICE MEN

WASHINGTON, June 11—(UP)—Banks were urged by President Roosevelt today to "extend all possible assistance" to World War veterans in obtaining cash on their bonus checks and bonds.

In a letter distributed to the banks by the treasury, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"In order that the veterans may receive the fullest benefit contemplated by congress, and that the funds be disbursed may begin to flow through the channels of trade without unnecessary delay it is essential that our banks throughout the country extend all possible assistance by cashing these checks at par upon proper identification.

"I urge all bankers to extend the fullest cooperation to the government in the encashment of these checks promptly and in full."

Distribution of bonus checks and bonds, the latter in $50 denominations, will begin June 15. Two weeks to a month may be required to distribute all the bonus to the more than 2,000,000 veterans.

NAME OF TAFT REMOVED FROM G. O. P. CONTEST

Ohio's Favorite Son to Step Aside to Permit Landon's Support

FIVE TO BACK BORAH

All Other Candidates Except Idahoan May Withdraw from Race

CLEVELAND, June 11—(UP)—The name of Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, Ohio's presidential candidate, will not be placed in nomination before the Republican national convention here, it was decided today.

Taft's delegates, leaders of the Ohio delegation said, will be released to Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, expected to be nominated on the first convention ballot.

"Under the Ohio constitution the obligation of the delegates is to the voters rather than to me," Taft said. "I have personally no authority to release them but I am willing to abide by the judgment of the wishes of a majority of the delegates if they decide to vote for Governor Landon on the first ballot."

No Opposition Seen

It was understood that an agreement has been reached among other candidates, with the possible exception of Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, that their names would not be placed in nomination, so that Landon could be nominated without opposition.

Official announcement of Taft's withdrawal was expected to be made by Grove Patterson, Toledo editor, who was to have placed his name before the convention.

The entire Ohio delegation, with exception of the five Borah-placed delegates, was expected to vote for Landon. The group of supporters of Frank Knox, estimated at not more than eight members, was understood to be ready to vote for Landon in the hope of improving their candidate's chances of landing the vice presidential nomination.

RAINFALL ELIMINATES CITY; HELPS COUNTIANS

Thermometers took a 25-degree tumble Wednesday evening after heavy rains drenched sections of Pickaway-co but eliminated Circleville. The heaviest downpour was reported east of the city.

Traffic was halted in sections of Fayette-co and Washington by a severe storm.

The highest temperature here Wednesday afternoon was 91 degrees and the lowest during the night was 66.

WOMAN RETURNS IN JAIL TO COMPLETE SENTENCE

Mrs. Evelyn Heskett, 28, of Pherson, entered the county jail Wednesday afternoon to finish serving out a 60-day sentence imposed by Judge C. C. Young on April 12 for contributing toward the delinquency of her children.

She was released from the jail on April 18 because of illness.

Landon Campaign Chief No Actor But the Ladies Do Gaze at Him

By BERTHA WELLMAN

CLEVELAND, June 11—Ladies gush—when they shake hands with John D. M. Hamilton, campaign manager for Gov. Alf M. Landon.

He's tall and lean and handsome with a good caustic wit and a bad case of laryngitis. This combination of qualities of course proves irresistible to national committee-women-at-large attending the Republican convention here, and no doubt accounts for some of the strained soprano notes on the third chorus of "Oh, Susanna", Landon's marching song.

Brown and Blue

With brown curly hair parted in the middle, light blue eyes, an irregularly chiseled nose and a firm New England jaw bone, Mr. Hamilton would do well in the movies if he weren't already waist deep in a Republican caucus. He dresses conservatively in brown, wears a blue tie and a blue ribbon on his straw hat.

Despite his looks Hamilton is no movie star. Posing for camera men on the roof of the Hollenden hotel he gave the little speech he'd rehearsed on the way upstairs, without so much as a glance at the camera. Any little fan dancer would have known enough to smile her head off at the camera—never mind the speech.

Modesty is becoming but it seems a shame. Mr. Hamilton smiles as well as Clark Gable and his ears are better. As it happened, both Hamilton and the man who asked him the questions looked as though it were a tall end of a pretty bad session.

After graduating from Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., Hamilton went to Northwestern university. He married a year before he received his LL.B. degree, and now lives on Boswell street, in Topeka, Kan., with his wife and two children. Incidentally, Mr. Hamilton

STATE LIQUOR WILLIAM PARKS, STORE TO MOVE ASHVILLE, DIES

Room Sought on E. Franklin-st By Control Office

Retired Farmer, 82, Member of Grain Company Board

The state liquor store, W. Main-st, will occupy different quarters after September 1, it has been learned.

The Ohio Liquor Control department is seeking bids for a room on E. Franklin-st between Court and Pickaway-sts. The bids must be submitted to the department, located in the Ohio Hartman building, Columbus, not later than noon Thursday, June 18.

The store has been in the Wilkes property since the state took over distribution of legalized liquors.

William Alvin Parks, 82, prominent retired farmer, died Wednesday at 4:30 p. m. at his home in Ashville. A complication of ailments caused death.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the home with Rev. T. M. Ricketts officiating. Burial will be in Reber Hill cemetery by E. F. Schlegel.

Mr. Parks was born in Washington-twp March 31, 1854 a son of John and Mary Parks.

In his youth he taught school in several Pickaway-co districts. At his death he was a member of the board of the Scioto Grain Co.

Mr. Parks is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Bertha Steiner of Chicago; two sons, Bernard at home, and Thaddeus H. of Columbus, and a sister, Mrs. Lida Smith of Marion. His wife died a number of years ago.

The meeting was sponsored by members of the township institute committee.

KNOX RELEASES ALL DELEGATES AS FIRST BALLOT NOMINATION FOR KANSAN APPEARS CERTAIN

Sen. Borah Frees Supporters in Two States While Governor's Men Take Complete Control of Republican Convention

Platform Committee Reported in Favor of Planks Demanded by Westerner; One-Man Nomination is Predicted

CLEVELAND, June 11—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah announced today his name would not be presented to the convention for the Republican presidential nomination.

Borah, asked definitely if he was withdrawing formally, said however: "Well there are some contingencies." His announcement came after conference with the Idaho delegation.

By LYLE C. WILSON

PUBLIC HALL, CLEVELAND, June 11—(UP)—The rush to the Kansas bandwagon started today and the big business before the Republican national convention was to ratify the behind-the-scenes nomination of Gov. Alf M. Landon.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg released his delegates. Charles G. Dawes of the Illinois Republican convention delegation said today that Colonel Frank Knox has released all his votes for the presidential nomination.

Sen. William E. Borah released the Wisconsin and Oregon delegations from their pledges to vote for him.

Only One Candidate

A strange thing may occur late today—it may be a convention at which only one candidate is placed in nomination.

Landon men were so completely in charge of the convention that they tossed aside the official program and wrote one of their own.

It called for a brief morning session and a recess until 2 p. m. when the platform will be brought in for consideration. Under this schedule the nominating speeches will be started late today and consideration of vice-presidential candidacies will go over until tomorrow.

CLEVELAND, June 11—(UP)—The G. O. P. Old Guard bowed to the will of Gov. Alf Landon and agreed to make vital revisions in the 1936 platform demanded by the Kansas governor, it was reported today.

At the same time, Chairman Herman M. Langworthy of the platform sub-committee of 14 postponed until 1 p. m. a meeting of the full resolutions committee to take final action on the document.

He indicated the controversial nature of some of the planks would require "considerable debate."

"We are in general agreement, I think, on most of the issues involved," Langworthy said after a coterie of Landon aides worked all night making platform revisions suggested telephonically by the Kansas governor.

Social Security Tested

One of the planks of which Landon disapproved was the one on social security. As originally drafted by the Landonites it provided for a direct tax on all the people so that the program could be put on a "pay as you go basis."

The sub-committee eliminated the recommendation for a tax and made no provision for financing aid to the aged and infirm. Advised of the change by his aide, Landon insisted the tax provisions be reinstated.

"Are you in agreement on the social security plank?" Langworthy was asked.

"I am sure that's all settled," the white-haired Kansas City lawyer replied with a smile.

Landon leaders, counting the main victory won, turned their attention to the selection of a vice presidential candidate. Senator Frederick Steiwer seemed to be the popular choice, but the Kansas wanted to sleep on the matter and make their decision calmly today.

Early arriving delegates in the hall still were talking about the demonstration set off last night by Former President Herbert Hoover.

Between two demonstrations—the second one lasting 34 minutes—he made a speech in which he called on Republicans to "stop this retreat."

Roscoe Conkling Simmons, Chicago delegate, tried to get on the platform to nominate Mr. Hoover but sergeants-at-arms repulsed him. The former president Continued on Page Eight

Roosevelt Lauds Jefferson Act; Moves to Texas

ABOARD ROOSEVELT SPECIAL June 11—(UP)—President Roosevelt moved his "non-political" southwestern tour into Texas after an impromptu, unacknowledged, radio deal with former President Hoover in which their clashing economic and political philosophies were dramatically contrasted.

Mr. Roosevelt, speaking at Little Rock, Ark., last night, was expected to devote his address chiefly to the Arkansas Centennial celebration. Instead, he struck a militant blow at his opponents and challenged Republicans to a finish fight on the constitutional issue.

Shortly after Roosevelt ended his blistering speech Mr. Hoover took the air from the Republican convention at Cleveland and laid down conflicting principles which he urged Republicans to espouse in their efforts to drive the New Deal from power.

"The Louisiana purchase has always had a special significance to me," Mr. Roosevelt said. "President Jefferson had the courage to act for the benefit of the United States without the full and unanimous approval of every member of the legal profession."

The President said Jefferson acted in accord with the broad purposes of the Constitution and asserted that reform sought by the New Deal also can be accomplished within the constitution's frame work.

"The constitution was intended to meet and fit the amazing physical, economic and social requirements that meet us in this generation," the president said.

The statement was logically interpretable as intent to take wind from the sails of Republicans who may attempt to frighten voters about the New Deal's attitude toward the constitution.

Later he will place a wreath on the Alamo, where 182 Texans died rather than surrender to Mexican troops.

PRICES SLIGHTLY LOWER ON PICKAWAY-CO MARKET

Prices were slightly lower Wednesday at the Circleville livestock yards as compared with the previous week. Cattle receipts totaled 350 head with good to choice grades ranging from $7.70 to $8.05. Last week they ranged from $8 to $8.40. Seven carloads were shipped direct.

Hog receipts totalled 581 head. Good to choice grades were listed from $9.90 to $10 as compared to $9.95 to $10.15 last week. The only market remained practically unchanged ranging from $8.30 to $9.45.

3-CO WOMAN FACE CHARGE AS MURDERESS

Flossie Dixon, 25, is Taken to View Body of Husband;
Other Death Probed

CHILLICOTHE, June 11.—(UP)—“Homicide” was the verdict returned by Coroner R. E. Oliver Wednesday in the shooting of Hubert Dixon, 41, of near Denver, Huntington-twp.

At the same time, Sheriff Joseph Vincent said he will file murder charges against Mrs. Flossie Guillett Dixon, 25, who is being held at the county jail and questioned about the shooting of her husband.

May Call Jury

Prosecutor Lester S. Reid indicated that a special session of the grand jury may be called to investigate the shooting and possibly go into the shooting last Sunday of Dewey Sherrick Zimmerman, 11, who died Wednesday as a result of the shot which tore most of the flesh from his left leg. William Poe, who was carrying the shotgun which was discharged at the boy, is not being held.

Mrs. Dixon was taken to the Fawcett funeral home Wednesday morning to view the body of her husband. She had expressed a desire to see the place where he was shot.

Asks About Shot

According to the coroner, she apparently was unmoved at sight of the body. She inquired whether the shot, which entered the left side had come out his back.

Officials have been unable to get Mrs. Dixon to change her story that the shooting was an accident. In order that the investigation may continue, the sheriff said he will file murder charges before Squire James A. Hickey, Thursday, and have her bound over to the grand jury for its consideration.

GRAZIANI NEW VICEROY OF ETHIOPIAN EMPIRE

ROME, June 11.—(UP)— Marshal Pietro Badoglio's brief term as “viceroy” of Ethiopia ended today with the appointment of Marshal Rodolfo Graziani as his successor. Simultaneously Badoglio was given the title “Duke of Addis Ababa.”

Hoover Political Career Ends in Glory

PUBLIC HALL, Cleveland, June 11.—(UP)—Herbert Clark Hoover's political career is ended today as he may have wished it to end—in circumstances that were pleasant, among faces that were friendly and on an occasion of his own choosing.

He faced the folks last night and all was forgiven. In the hot blast of the klieg lights and under the eyes of the party which went into the ditch with him in 1932, he made his comeback and his last exit. The West Branch, Ia., boy who made good was at the end of a trail.

Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican National committee conceived the idea of inviting Mr. Hoover to address this national convention. Political Washington sniffed its displeasure. There was a yammer of protest from presidential candidates who feared Mr. Hoover would take advantage of the platform opportunity here to nominate himself for the presidency.

“Hoover day” was not a part of the program. “Hoover day” just happened. It began happening in mid-morning when crowds welcomed Mr. Hoover from a Chicago train. It continued deep into the afternoon as handshakes beamed on him and recalled old times.

But “Hoover Day” was nothing compared to “Hoover night.” “Hoover night” was an occasion, a vindication, a reconciliation and a good luck-good by all in one. The Hoover speech tipped the delegates into the first ruckus uproar of this markedly restrained gathering. They whooped and shouted, lunged metal-heavy state standards in jostling parades around and around the hall, refused to subside on the call of their chairman and finally were sent home like unruly children by a motion to adjourn which was put and carried almost by ruse.

FRANK BROTHERS BEGINS TERM IN PENITENTIARY

COLUMBUS, June 11.—(UP)—Frank L. Brothers, former chief accountant of the state division of conservation from 1932 to 1934, today had begun a one to 10 year sentence in Ohio Penitentiary on a charge of embezzlement of state funds.

Brothers entered the penitentiary late yesterday a short time after his action for a new trial had been overruled by Judge John R. King in common pleas court here.

He was convicted of having diverted to his own use $13,785 in funds taken from state fish and game license funds. An examiners' report showed findings approximately nearly $31,000 against the accountant.

MOST POPULAR INDOOR GAME

WHAT is the most popular indoor game?
Probably most people today would say bridge. In its original form, and as modified to become "auction" and "contract" bridge, there probably was never an indoor game played by so many people.

As a development of the game of whist,
it is played by many times the number who used to play that old game. Whist players years ago were a limited element of a studious type, and they made a science of
it. But it was considered to require too much concentration for ordinary folks who took to euchre, cribbage, high-low-jack,
poker, and many other forms of play.

Today bridge has become a nation wide craze. Many people, particularly women, take it with great seriousness. They spent much money on lessons, they study works of scientific play. It has become a quite serious matter for some, since the circles
in which they move usually put up money,
and they can't afford to play if they are always losers.

Playing bridge is a mental training. It develops the memory and the power of concentration, and a certain ability to plan future action. But people should not take it too seriously. The folks who go up in the air because Partner trumped the wrong trick, may know all about bridge, but they need lessons in ordinary courtesy.

OIL FOR HARMONICAS

HISTORY repeats itself, and, if the Standard Oil Company's experience in Germany is any criterion, we shall soon be swapping beads for beer.

Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey reported at that firm's annual meeting that the concern had sold oil to Germany in exchange for 40,000,000 harmonicas.

Well, the harmonicas, at least, are more useful than the junk our forefathers gave the Indians for land, furs and meat.

We should be careful, however, about too sudden a return to the good old trading days. There are some clever Chinese in this world, and Mark Twain is no longer on the job with shafts of wit designed to protect American business.

Now it's a San Francisco policeman who stands out as a model of thrift, having by dint of great care and caution in the use of his $2,400 a year salary accumulated $800,000.

In these days when highway congestion
is just about reaching its peak, the warning against making a right turn in the middle of a bridge seems particularly opportune.

World At A Glance

CLEVELAND, June 11.—Judson C. Welliver has attended every national convention since 1896, when William McKinley first was named for the presidency.

He attended all his earlier ones
as a newspaper correspondent. In 1920 he managed Warren G.
Harding's press relations. Subsequently he became chief clerk at the White House, serving under Presidents Harding and Coolidge.
Now he is publicity adviser to "big interests," but he still attends conventions, either as a matter of habit or because the "big interests" have a stake in them. I didn't consider it tactful to ask him which.

Anyway, coming out of the Cleveland auditorium the first day
of this year's regular quadrennial G. O. P. blow-out, I met him. We worked on the same reportorial
staff once.

HICK EXTINCT

"Do you notice," asked Jud,
"how utterly extinct the hick is in this generation, as a participant in these national political gatherings?"

"I can remember when the city and the farm delegates at a national party convention were two distinct species. You could tell which was which the minute you looked at a convention hall, even without state labels to help you.
The city slickers wore hand-

NEWSPAPERMEN IN CHARGE

CLEVELAND—The press always plays a leading roll at national political conventions. Here at Cleveland it is especially important.

Not only are two of the Presidential candidates publishers, but the master minds formulating and directing the campaign strategy of all the leading aspirants are newspapermen. The press literally dominates this Republican Convention.

While veteran party leaders, whose word once was law, wander aimlessly
about the hotel lobbies, the newspapermen generalissimos are sitting in the inner councils, shaping tactics, pulling wires,
giving orders and dictating the platform.

It's all very strange and bewildering to the old party wheelhorses. But there is nothing they can do about it. The newsmen are in control. Old hands at the business of politics, they know all the ropes. Behind the scenes they are running the show and their various candidates with spirit and vigor.

It is something new in national politics,
and the "boys" are getting a great kick
out of it.

LANDON STAFF

The volume of pro-Landon publicity is solely and directly attributable to the fact that his campaign is being run almost entirely by press men.

Landon headquarters here looks like the city-room of a newspaper. It is manned entirely by newsmen. The only exception is John Hamilton—and he was picked by the newspapermen.

Dean of the Landon high command is William Allen White, famous and enlightened publisher-editor of the Emporia, Kas., Gazette. White has only a hand on the throttle of campaign tactics, but he is writing the Landon platform. In whatever form the Republican platform finally emerges, it will bear the stamp of White's views and pen.

Henry J. Allen, former Kansas Governor, ex-Senator, and part owner of The Topeka State Journal, is White's old friend and right hand lieutenant.

The combat strategist of the staff is chunky Roy Roberts, managing editor and former Washington correspondent of The Kansas City Star. Roberts played a leading role in 1928 in building and guiding the Hoover boom. His specialty is political manipulation and he is doing his stuff in his best form.

Other newsmen of the staff are Oscar Stauffer, owner of a group of small-town
Midwestern papers, in charge of press relations; Jack Harris of the Hutchinson, Kas., News, Stauffer's assistant; Lacy Haynes, Topeka correspondent of The Kansas City Star, Roberts' Man-Friday; Rolla Clymer, El Dorado, Kas., Times, and Senator Arthur Capper, publisher of Capper's Weekly and The Topeka Capital,
both contact men.

BORAH BATTLER

The press genius of the Borah camp is
W. Kingsland Macy, part owner of a chain of small New York papers. A moderate Liberal, Macy was chairman of the New York State Republican Committee, but was ousted last year by the Old Guard.

READ THIS FIRST:

Joan Spencer, a small town school teacher, recently disappointed in love,
is engaged to marry to Julian Sloane, noted playboy. She begins to enjoy her new life immensely
at Sloane's luxurious summer home where she now lives. Sheila True, an actress and close friend of Julian's, is the only disturbing factor.
Sheila obviously is jealous of the playboy's pretty secretary. At house party Joan sits out a dance with Pierre Durand, Sheila's new flame. While playing golf during the same week-end party, Joan re-cuses Sheila who has overruled in a canoe with Pierre and the suddenly is stunned by a blow on the head as she is about to climb from the lake.
While Joan is recuperating from her accident, Alex Garrity, an admirer
she had met at Sloane's, tells her that Julian is in love with her.
(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 16

JOAN THOUGHT that writers were using a figure of speech when they said a person's mouth dropped open. When Alex said "I suppose you know he's in love with you?"
she found out she was wrong and closed her mouth as firmly as her surprise would permit.

"Which one of us got bumped on the head?" she said after a while.
"You did. There's no doubt about it if you mean to sit there looking as innocent as you seem to be."

"The trouble with you is, Alex,
that just because you're in love is no reason to think that every other man in the world is. That's a stupid."

"Did I ever say anything about being in love?" Alex asked blandly.

That had been a slip and Joan flushed with annoyance at herself.

She had assumed that Alex was falling in love with her. He had most certainly talked that way and now she had made a stupid remark which proved a boomerang to embarrass her.

"My error," she answered coldly—coldly because she was ashamed of herself and a trifle let down by Alex's unexpected remark.

Joan had no way of knowing that Alex wasn't accustomed to seeing the way about her. He felt sure she her and that, handling his emotional reactions, he was naturally defensive.

"We'll skip the whole thing. Look here, I've brought you a book. It is a jolly little number guaranteed not to tax your brain and at the same time provide you with merriment to end."

He produced a book of cartoons
and Joan began to turn the pages idly. She wished he would go. The easy comradeship between them wasn't what it had started out to be.

Heads, she thought. She wished she could have been conscious when whatever had happened that Alex had seen had taken place.

"You were sweet to come all the way out here to see me, Alex. Thank you so much. Please forgive me if I'm snappish. It's really a snapper gnawing at my vitals. They're starving me. I cry for steak and get a poached egg."

"What you get is a lamb chop,
baked potato, broccoli, a pot of tea
and two cookies . . . and company."

It was Julian with Joan's tray.

Whereupon Alex said:

"Well, now that you've company—and food—I'll be pushing along. Glad to see you're able to sit up, Joan.
You might give me a ring if you're running into town soon."

"What's your rush, Alex? Stay and have a bit of dinner with me."

Joan urged.

"Oh, don't go. Now that he was going Joan didn't want him to. She didn't want to be alone with Julian after what Alex had said. And she didn't want Alex to go off in the mood he was in. He hadn't said he would come to see her again. He had been coldly casual when he asked her to "give me a ring". Alex was well on the way to being lost to Joan and she had too little to lose him.

"Thanks again for coming. I will call you," she smiled at him until she heard his footsteps on the stairs.

"Now, then, what kind of a butter do you think I make?" Julian bustled himself unfolding the tiny bed table, placing the tray on it, removing

"Which one of us got bumped on the head?"

silver covers and tucking a napkin
under Joan's chin.

"Well, I shouldn't say that this is the method prescribed for Better Buttling but you are an excellent cross between a head waiter and a children's nurse." Joan peered into her plate avidly.

Strange that she was so hungry,
that the food looked and smelled so tempting, yet she couldn't eat it.
Her throat was filled with a lump.

"A children's nurse is what you need. You're really a child, aren't you?"

"I shouldn't say so, Mr. Methusaleh." There was a touch of crispness in her short answer.

"Mind this pipe?" Joan said she didn't mind and watched him settle back comfortably in her big chintz chair from which point he eyed her thoughtfully and kindly.

"You are a child. At least you seem so to me."

Joan looked up with a flash in her eyes. "I suppose it's a long time since you've seen any foolish young things of 23 toddling around?"

Julian laughed indulgently. "Joan,
I don't think I've ever associated 23
with the age of any girls I've ever known. Most of them that you'll meet and see when we get back to New York are perpetually 18 or age-less. As for toddling girls, I haven't seen one of those except in the nurseries of my friends' children."

"Don't you like them young?"

Joan said, feeling very young herself, and calculating the difference between 23 and 40 and deciding it was very little indeed.

"I like you or, at least I will, if you'll work on that lamb chop."

Joan worked on it silently for a few minutes and then:

"Have you ever been married, Mr.
Sloane?"

"Never," he patted his tobacco firmly in his pipe. Joan wondered what feminine gesture could be as utterly absorbing at a moment when a lady wanted to answer a question in one word.

"Why?" he asked.

Joan felt very bold but she'd started something and she had to finish it.

"It isn't unusual for me to have expected that you might have been,"
she said at last. "I mean most people do get married."

"That's right," he answered. "But are most people happy?"

"They could be," she said and rushed on. "I don't have much patience with people who don't make a go of marriage. I mean that if people are in love and companionable,

they have everything to make life
happy with. They have sympathy and understanding and a code of sportsmanship that makes giving and receiving the things that people have to give to each other."

She knew what she wanted to say but because of the things she couldn't say she was a trifle incoherent.

"If most people feel the way you do about it, Joan Spencer, they would have a better chance but most of us are too selfish to remember that code you were thinking about.
And in the world in which I live, we have careers and outside people and personal accomplishment that absorb almost all we have of that giving spirit."

"I see," Joan said it but she didn't at all. She was thinking that the girl who married Julian couldn't possibly ever want to do anything but live in his shadow. Julian who was so kind, so gracious, so polished and handsome. He should have a beautiful wife who would be his hostess.
He should have children. Her thoughts, unspoken, ran along and she found herself completely silent.

"You'll marry, Joan, and make some man happy."

"Oh, no!" She said it too quickly.

"Unless I'm wrong, I see a love-light in young Garrity's eyes." It was more like a question.

Joan was awfully glad that Alex couldn't ever know how quickly she answered or in what a ridiculous-
idea voice she said:

"That child! Of course you haven't seen anything of the kind."

"He's not a child, Joan. You just think that because you've been cooped up here with an old gentleman."

"Do you mean yourself?" She wanted to protest that he wasn't an old gentleman, that he was the most . . .

"But look here, I'm tiring you.
Joan, I just wanted you to know as quickly as possible that you're to have a vacation. As soon as you are able to be up. You can stay on here
if you like or go back to Blakeville."

The bottom dropped out of Joan's world.

"I've got to run over to England for six weeks. I'm going to collaborate with Gilbert Haggarty—he's the English playwright—and I won't be back until the first of October.
Then we'll start to work in New York. You'll like it better there, and you need a rest. Think you'll like that?"

Joan was just able to manage a fervent "Oh, yes!"

STAR SIGNALS

JUNE 11

PERSONS most likely to feel the planetary vibrations of the day are those who were born from Feb. 20 through March 20.

General Indications

Morning—Good.

Afternoon—Bad.

Evening—Bad.

The morning is socially good,
but beware of deceit through the later hours of the day.

Today's Birthdate

You should produce some great work, if you overcome a dislike for plodding.

Home or conditions surrounding property are likely to be much muddled during December, 1936, and January, 1937.

Be careful to guard against treachery.

Try not to assume too much responsibility and avoid worry
during February, 1937.

Avoid extravagance with money
or power during June and October, 1936.

Socially favorable, buy new clothes or seek favors from June 13 through 17, 1936.

FIRE SPARES BANJO

TOLEDO (UP)—Guitar and banjo-playing George L. Kitterman henceforth will plunk only the banjo, and do that wearing his one and only suit of clothes.

Fire at his home destroyed his guitar and all his clothes except the suit he was wearing.

Anglers Get Fish After 11 Years

OREGON CITY, Ore. (UP)—
Mead Oswald caught his first salmon in 11 years of patient angling here. Each year Oswald had hopefully dropped his line into the salmon-infested Willamette river,
this year landing a 20-pound fish.

Woman Deft With Truck

ALBANY, Ore. (UP)—When
her husband became ill, Mrs.
Hugh Kizer began driving his two-ton truck. That was three years ago. She is now rated as a proficient truck driver, and her services are in demand.

ONE BIG FAMILY

The automobile of course started the transformation," reflected Judson.

"Forty years back the farmer
never got into a population center of more than 200 or 300. Today his flivver takes him everywhere.

"The auto also stimulated hard roadbuilding.

"What used to be an almost impossible round trip for a farm dweller in the present era is only a journey of a couple of hours for
him.

"And I'm telling you it's had its influence on politics.

"Whereas we formerly were two different breeds, the city breed
and the country breed, this con-

family."

WHISKERS GONE

"And in conclusion," said Jud,
"let me pay a tribute to the safety
razor."

"The old-time farmer was conspicuous because he was so hirsute.

"Today he shaves as often as

Pretty Party Arranged For Two Brides-to-be

Ann Bennett, Marian Hitler Honored At May Home

Among the first parties planned for the pleasure of two brides-to-be was the 1 o'clock luncheon given Wednesday by Mrs. Oliver Hosterman, Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. Robert D. Workman, of Columbus, at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. May, S. Court-st.

Miss Ann Bennett, whose engagement to Mr. Howard Vorhies White was announced May 16, and Miss Marian Hitler, who will become the bride of William D. Radcliff of Williamsport, some time this fall, were the honored guests.

Yellow coreopsis and ragged robins in charming arrangements transformed the rooms into a colorful scene. The small tables for serving were centered with bud vases of the same flowers.

Contract bridge was enjoyed during the afternoon hours with prizes being awarded Mrs. Charles Gilmore, Mrs. Harry Heffner and Miss Catherine Smith.

Those invited were Miss Smith, Mrs. Elster Copeland, Mrs. Florence Jones, Miss Minnie Lyle, Mrs. James Adams, Miss Margaret Rooney, Mrs. T. D. Harmon, Miss Charlotte Moore, Mrs. Don White, Miss Margaret Mattinson, Mrs. Frank J. Bennett, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. G. L. ## Winchell Becomes Actor With "Front Page" Role

Columnist to Be Presented By Smith Ballou; Comedy Retains Popularity on Nation's Airlines

Walter Winchell will make his bow as a radio actor when he plays the lead role in a scene from "The Front Page" on Smith Ballou's Chateau program next Saturday, June 13. Ace reporter of New York's Great White Way, correspondent to "Mr. and Mrs. America" by way of the radio and his widely syndicated newspaper column, Winchell in his debut on the air in a dramatic role promises one of the most interesting broadcasts of the season.

Other guest stars in the broadcast over a WEA-FNBC network at 8:30 p. m. (EST) will be Alice Faye, singing star of radio and the screen; George Jessel, comedian; and Welker Cochran, billiard champion.

The Hecht and MacArthur play is particularly suited to Winchell's staccato broadcast style and presents him in the role of a newspaperman.

Alice Faye, who started as a radio singer and went on later to screen stardom, will sing a group of songs with Victor Young's orchestra. The orchestra will also be heard with Smith Ballou when he sings and in some new arrangements of their own. George Jessel, because the broadcast is on June 13, thinks it would be fitting for him to deliver a short message to the radio audience on the subject of superstitions.

Welker Cochran, veteran billiard player and champion, will be interviewed by Ballou on his experiences during years of match play on the tables.

COMEDY MORE POPULAR

A QUICK SURVEY of new programs and those which will be continued next autumn indicate that comedy will be more popular than ever with sponsors and broadcasters during the next season.

Today Jack Benny, Fred Allen, Phil Baker, Amos 'n' Andy, Stoopnagle and Budd, Eddie Cantor are names to conjure with and among the rising names of radio are such laugh-creators as Ken Murray and Frank Fay.

Less than a decade ago the radio picture was entirely different. A great many broadcasters then thought comedy was useful only as an occasional novelty on the air waves. Singers, bands and thrill stories were regarded as the most substantial of air fare.

You remember when Chandu the Magician and the Shadow, just to name a couple, were in their heyday on the air. Now they and other famous names of the period have vanished from your radio schedule. The comics have captured their place.

Comedians, something not expected by broadcasters when the funmakers first appeared before

SOFTBALL LOOP LEAD AT STAKE FRIDAY EVENING

Circleville Oils, Eagles to Decide Strength; Both Remain Undefeated

The title for the first half of the softball league will be at stake Friday evening when the Circleville Oils and Eagles' lodge teams meet on the SOElectric field.

The teams are tied for the lead with four victories each, the Eagles winning their fourth Friday evening game over the slipping Given Oils. The score was 7 to 4 with Eddie Callahan coasting the whole way. The Eagles gained seven runs before the Given score.

Callahan gave only three hits, the Eagle scoreboard showed. Bob Jones was the Given hurler.

Tonight finds the Eshelman Feeds and Pickaway Dairies playing, providing the Eshelman outfit can put enough players on the field. A game was forfeited this week when many of the Eshelman athletes worked late.

GOOD PITCHING FEATURED A. A. BALL CONTESTS

BY UNITED PRESS

Milwaukee blanked the Indianapolis Indians last night 4 to 0, giving Heving, a former Indianapolis moundman, a shutout. The Brewers barely maintained their slim lead in the Association as the Kansas City Blues had little trouble beating Louisville 5 to 1.

Heving allowed the Indians six scattered, ineffective hits.

Kansas City's Smith allowed only one hit in pitching his team to a victory. Smith had been under suspension until yesterday.

Toledo jumped on St. Paul for a five run attack in the second inning of their game, featuring a triple by Tresh, left fielder, with three men on base. The Mud Hens made three more runs to win by a score of 8 to 3. Boone was the winning pitcher; Spencer was the loser.

The Columbus Red Birds finished a series all even with Minneapolis, winning from the Millers 5 to 2. Macon, Columbus hurler, did not give an earned run until the ninth although he allowed eight safeties. In the ninth Caffie, Miller outfielder, reached him for a home run.

BARNEY ROSS IS VICTOR OVER MILWAUKEE YOUTH

MILWAUKEE, June 11.—(UP)—Barney Ross, welterweight champion, stopped Laddie Tonelli of Milwaukee in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round exhibition bout last night. Ross, who weighed in at 142½, was awarded a technical knockout. Tonelli weighed 150½.

About This And That In Many Sports

Cooke Comes Back

FOUR YEARS ago Dusty Cooke, substituting for Earl Combs in center field for the Yankees, fell and broke a leg . . . they didn't shoot him, but sent him to Newark instead . . . the same Dusty Cooke, now playing right field for the Red Sox is the talk of the league . . . and a pretty certain bet for that position on the All-Star American league team . . . another Swensonville, N. C., boy makes good . . .

Reiber Pays Off

The Tigers are beginning to cash in on young Frank Reiber, catcher, kept mostly in the bull pen since the days when Bucky Harris managed the team . . . Frankie's chief weakness has been a tendency to throw wild to bases . . . his arm freezing up in the tight spots . . . his experience as battery mate for Schoolboy Rowe in the Texas league is proving valuable to him now that Mickey Cochrane has started to fall apart.

Socks, Coffee, Tobacco

Mrs. Jimmy Thomson, whose husband is one of the longest drivers in golf, is the former Viola Dana of the films . . . and she takes her knitting along to the golf tournaments . . . while Jimmy plays, Viola darts his socks . . . Roy Parmelee of the Cardinals has given up tobacco and coffee . . . and says that's the reason he's a better pitcher this year . . . Grover Alexander was a great pitcher for 20 years, and he used not only tobacco and coffee, but certain other stimulants of a stirring nature.

It develops that Brevity, hailed as superhorse before the Kentucky Derby, is suffering from a filled leg, and must quit racing . . . Brevity, like the sports writers who picked him to win the Derby, went out on a limb . . . There are only 17 players in the American league who were regulars back in 1925 they are Goose Goslin, Ossie Bluege (bench), Al Simmons, Bing Miller, Charley Ruffing, Ted Lyons, Luke Sewell, Charley Gehring, Heinie Manush, Earl Whitehill, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Dykes, Charley Berry, Mickey Cochrane, Lefty Grove, Firpo Marberry and Rube Walberg.

Kamm's Team Winning

Willie Kamm, third baseman dismissed last year in a rumput with Walter Johnson, then manager of the Indians, is doing very well as a manager himself . . . it looks like a pennant for Willie's Missions team in the Pacific Coast league.

WOODDELL LAUDS PHEASANT FARM IN PICKAWAY-CO

"The best birds for their age I have seen in Ohio," Larry Wooddell, state conservation director, told Clarence Francis, Pickaway-co game protector, this week when he visited Pickaway-co's pheasant farm on the Ringgold-pk.

Mr. Wooddell was accompanied by Fred Harlowe, district conservation officer, who is conducting an experiment on pheasant raising in two counties. "If these experiments are successful there will be 1,000 birds sent to every Ohio county next year," Mr. Wooddell said. Seven hundred and twenty birds are being raised in special pens by Francis and Harlowe.

After visiting the farm Wooddell went to Kinderhook to attend the fish fry of the Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood. He spoke at the meeting on soil and wildlife conservation.

Van Mungo's Action Stuns Brooklyn

NEW YORK, June 11.—(UP)—Moguls of the Brooklyn Dodgers will decide today what to do about their ace fireballer, Van Mungo, who, disgusted with the team, abandoned it in Pittsburgh yesterday.

The big right-hander is a technical contract jumper and thereby faces being declared ineligible to play in organized baseball by High Commissioner Kene-saw Mountain Landis. That he will be fined and possibly suspended temporarily by Manager Casey Stengel is accepted as a fact.

Some observers, however, believe that the way is being paved to sell or trade Mungo to another National league club. Rumors have had Van going to the Chicago Cubs, the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Cincinnati Reds, and lately to the New York Giants for $50,000 and two players.

Stephen McCrever, president of the Brooklyn club, denied any notion of selling or trading Mungo. Brooklyn is one of the best baseball towns in the country and the fans have stood a lot from the "daffiness boys," but selling Mungo arbitrarily would just about be the straw to break the camel's back.

With Mungo refusing to play any longer with the Dodgers, the way is opened for a sale or trade. It is not probable that the Brooklyn management will charge off as a dead loss an article priced at $150,000 to Cub owner, Phil Wrigley, a month ago, even to spite Van and keep him out of baseball.

Even if Mungo's desertion was not a trick to appease the flat-bushers when he is disposed of, the pitcher will have forced the club to show its hand before the trading deadline, June 15.

Working in 16 games this season, Van has won six and lost eight.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Ken O'Dea, catcher for the Chicago Cubs, whose single in the ninth drove in the tying and winning runs against the Phillies.

DATES FOR RED BIRD BASEBALL SCHOOL LISTED

COLUMBUS, June 11.—Dates of the baseball school conducted each year by the Columbus Red Birds were announced today by President Donald E. Beach. This year's school will get under way on Monday, June 22, and continue for one week. All sessions will be held in the Red Bird stadium, Columbus.

According to President Beach, boys are eligible who are between the ages of 17 and 22 years of age who are interested in entering professional baseball. Applications are being received by the Columbus club.

Branch Rickey, Jr., is to arrive in Columbus June 15 to take charge of this year's training camp. He will be assisted by Barney Shotton, manager of the Red Birds, Pat Crawford, club secretary, as well as Charlie Barrett, Joe Schultz and Joe Mathes, scouts under the St. Louis Cardinal organization.

These annual camps have attracted scores of boys each year and annually uncover promising material. Many boys who have been noted by scouts of the St. Louis Cardinals are to be sent here for an official tryout in addition to the number who make individual application and come to Columbus each year "on their own."

Last year, over a dozen contracts were given boys who passed the school tryouts with flying colors and who were ordered this year to report to some minor league club for practical experience.

The Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday at 8 p. m. in its rooms at Court and Main-sts in an effort to form a retail merchants' association.

The speaker will be G. W. Sulley, widely known as an authority on retail merchandising and salesmanship. Sulley is a member of the staff of the Merchants Service Bureau maintained by the National Cash Register Co., Dayton.

The object of the bureau is to raise the standards of retail business practices by giving assistance to retailers where it is needed. A movement has been gained speed in Circleville to form a merchants' association, with an accompanying credit, within the Chamber of Commerce.

Monday's meeting will not be a dinner session, but will be open to every merchant and storekeeper in the city. Mack Parrett, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, pointed out.

Landon Chief No Actor, But Ladies Gaze on Him

looks as though he knew what he wanted. When he says, "Go get mother her glasses," his children probably jump to obey.

"Country Lawyer"
Since last March Mr. Hamilton has had no time for anything but Landon ballyhoo, not even the movies. He works twenty-four hours a day and hopes that you will, too. At press conferences he sits on the table, hangs on with both hands and swings his legs.

"All right, start firing," he says, waiting impatiently for someone to start. It irks him to be asked questions he can't answer. "How do I know?" he says. "I'm only a country lawyer."

As gracefully as Tarzan in the tree tops, Mr. Hamilton moves around the reception room at Landon headquarters. He talks to one person at a time, then edges on to someone else, speaking in so low a voice that you can't hear his partial drawl ten inches away.

Though slightly bored, he even looks efficient. Nicest thing about him—he manages to be pleasant without actually back-slapping. His conversation has none of the embroidered cordiality so common to political men and women.

Most noticeable characteristics are his directness, questions, and a becoming sourness.

Oh, Mr. Hamilton!

Clusters of people greet him wherever he turns.

"Mr. Hamilton, I want you to meet a friend of mine."

"Mr. Hamilton, I want to congratulate you."

"Mr. Hamilton this—"

"Mr. Hamilton that—"

"Mr. Hamilton, you must get so sick of all this talk you could die."

"I do," says Mr. Hamilton, "but I can't do a thing about it."

NEGRO GUARDED FROM MOB AFTER WOMAN'S DEATH

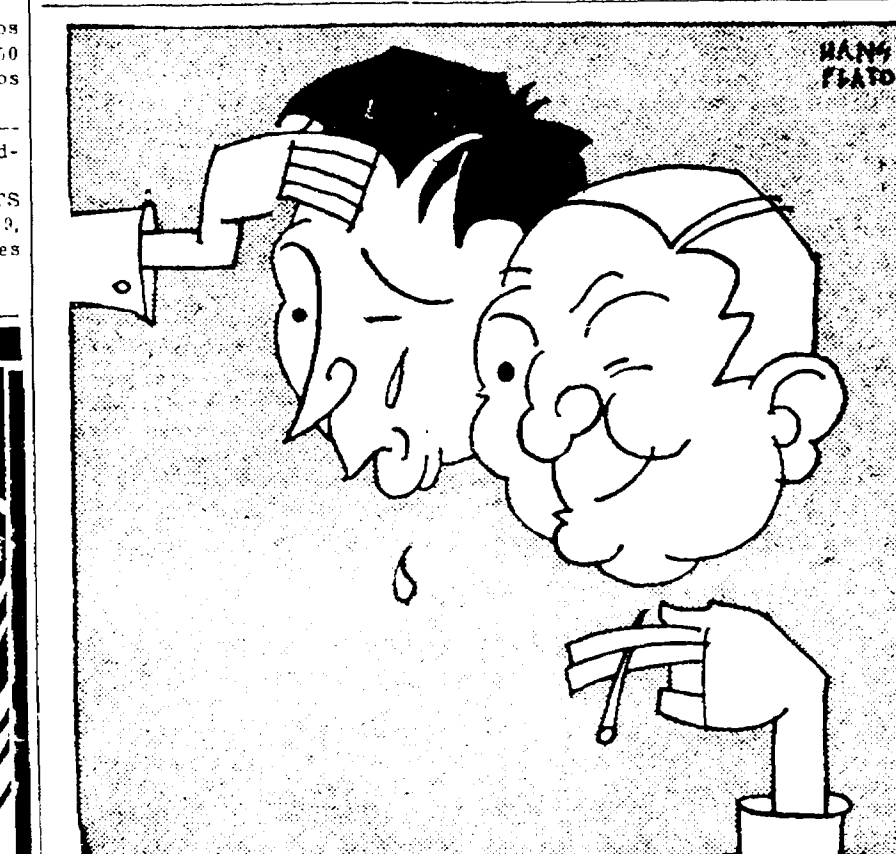

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 11.—(UP)—Rainey Betha, 22, negro, of Owensboro, was under heavy guard in the Jefferson-co jail today on charges of assault and murder.

Officers said he admitted killing Mrs. Eliza Edwards, 70, wealthy Owensboro widow.

Betha was brought to Louisville after a crowd of 200 had gathered outside the Owensboro jail. Mrs. Edwards, clad in her nightgown, was found dead in her bed. An autopsy showed she had been strangled, beaten, and assaulted.

PUP MYSTIFIES TOWN

CONNEAUT, O.—(UP)—A pup that became stranded on a narrow stone ledge half way up the side of the city building furnished Conneaut residents with an amusing mystery that might never be solved. The pup was rescued by an ex-sailor, but how it reached the dangerous ledge no one has learned.

SEYMOUR FACES CHARGE BROUGHT AFTER ACCIDENT

Emerson Seymour, 23, of 1819 S. Parson-ave, Columbus, one of the victims in the auto accident Saturday night on the Kingston-pk at Scippo creek bridge, will be given a hearing before H. O. Evenden, justice of peace, Thursday at 7:30 p. m. for driving an automobile when intoxicated.

The charge was filed Wednesday afternoon by Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

Seymour and Sidney E. Postle, 42, mechanic, also of 1819 S. Parson-ave, were riding in the car when it crashed into a guy pole. Postle sustained a depressed fracture on the right side of his head and is in Berger hospital. Seymour suffered a cut right hand and a laceration on the forehead.

Both of the men told Sheriff Radcliff they could remember nothing about the accident and did not know which one was driving. After the crash the car was driven about a mile up the road, then back to the bridge, the sheriff learned. He found a whiskey bottle, about two-thirds empty in the car.

When officers arrived at the scene Seymour had disappeared. He told the sheriff he had spent the night in a barn. He walked to Circleville Sunday morning for treatment and after being treated was lodged in the county jail.

NEW YORK 'VISITOR' WANTS HOOVER NAMED

CLEVELAND, June 11.—(UP)—Queenie Ethel St. Clair, the platinum blonde from New York, patrolled the hotel lobbies today looking for delegates who would vote for Herbert Hoover.

Miss St. Clair was in the very fore rank of the demonstration for the former president in Public Hall last night. Waving a large American flag, she screamed, shouted, stood on chairs, ran about, and in divers other ways indicated her complete approval. A Landon man suggested that Mr. Hoover wouldn't get the nomination and she poked her flag pole into his face.

"I'm not a delegate," Miss St. Clair said. "But I'm a good Republican and I want Mr. Hoover nominated."

SABOTAGE BLAMED FOR TROUBLE IN SPEAKERS

CLEVELAND, June 11.—(UP) Saboteurs have been at work on the public address system in Public Hall where the Republican National convention is meeting, engineers said today.

The engineers found that the two main radio cables had been cut by a hack saw and that other wires had been tampered with. During the keynote speech Tuesday night, the speaker system failed entirely and yesterday, though there were no complete failures, terrific chattering instead of intelligible sound emerged from the loud speakers.

Mrs. Charles Doan of Portsmouth was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Barnhill, Wednesday.
